Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Geological Sketches at Home and Abroad Sometimes, if the weather was dull, my comrades repaired to my room (which was dignified as the workshop) to hear a disquisition on the last invention, or to help if they could in removing some troublesome and apparently insuperable mechanical difficulty. Or we planned a glorious game of cricket, or golf, or football, that seldom came to a close until the evening grew too dark for longer play. In spring-time we would sally forth into the country to some well-remembered bank, where the primroses and violets bloomed earliest, and return at dusk, bringing many a bunch for those at home. The summer afternoons often found us loitering, rod in hand, along the margin ol a shady streamlet, in whose deeper pools the silvery troutlets loved to feed. And it fed, truly, with little danger from us. The writhing worm (we never soared to the use of tne fly), though ever so skilfully and unfeelingly twined round the hook, failed to allure the scaly brood, which we could see...
